

DeBio
DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI PADOVA

Location

The meeting will be held in the historical centre of the city of Chioggia (North-Eastern Italy). Chioggia is located just between the lagoon of Venice and the Adriatic Sea and hosts the Hydrobiological Station “Umberto D’Ancona” of the University of Padova, as well as the Master Course in Marine Biology of the University of Padova. See <http://chioggia.biologia.unipd.it/en/> for more information.

The meeting location will be:

Palazzo Grassi (Grassi Palace), Riva Canal Vena 1281 - Calle Grassi Naccari, 30015 Chioggia

Please see the map found at this link <http://goo.gl/maps/N462B> which shows the location of Palazzo Grassi in the historical centre of Chioggia.

How to reach Chioggia

The closest airports are:

- Venice International Airport (VCE) <http://www.veniceairport.it/>

- Treviso Airport (TSF, sometimes called Treviso-Venice airport by some companies, but it is NOT in Venice) <http://www.trevisoairport.it>

From Venice airport, the fastest trip to Chioggia is to take a bus just outside the airport to Piazzale Roma square in Venice; from there, you should take the bus to Chioggia-Sottomarina. Buses from the airport to Venice – Piazzale Roma are run by the ACTV company or by ATVO (see the website of the airport for more information).

Concerning the trip from Venice to Chioggia, you can take the bus number 80 to Sottomarina (a neighbourhood of Chioggia), which stops in Chioggia, see timetable here: <http://actv.avmspa.it/en/content/suburban-lines-0>.

From Treviso airport, the fastest trip to Chioggia is again to take a bus to Piazzale Roma in Venice, and from there to take the bus to Chioggia as described above. The public transport from TSF airport to Venice is described on the website of the airport.

On the websites of both airports, you can find information on shuttles and taxis as well. As a general rule, please be aware that taxis in Italy are expensive and it may be a good idea to book (and know the price) in advance, or to ask the approximate price of the trip before starting it. For example, there is a taxi service that will cost for the Venice-Chioggia roundtrip 130 euros, that you may want to share with other people: if interested, please let the organizers of the meeting know so that they can help you to book it (since speaking Italian is required to do so).

Other useful links

National railway system: <http://www.trenitalia.com/>